

Zac Little: Villain Speech

Yes, Finally my plan has been set in motion I finally will be able to slaughter most of humanity and put the rest in place, When i press the button it will release tiny small drones witch will spread through the air and infected unsuspecting people where they will drill into their bodies and build new drone form there remains, and after that the person will slowly suffocate and slowly die, the drone will evenly build a huge swarm and will defeat all of humanity and my plan will fall into place and I will rule the Earth.

Now you may be wondering why must I commit such a heinous crime, well when I was just a small child I was living my normal life when a robber broke into my house and shot my parents ever since then I could never trust humanity, I saw how weak and pathetic humans are and fight for nothing so.

Now once every pathetic human is destroyed I will build replacements and build a perfect civilization of robots all working together like a gear in a machine everything will be in order and it will all be perfect, no more will people fall out of place as my new race of perfect machines will be the peak of humanity, as that is why I ripped off my weak flesh and replaced it with perfect machinery, soon all the world will be coated in perfect metal.